

THE HIGH WIRE
PROJECT

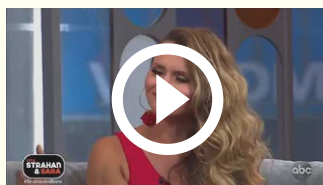

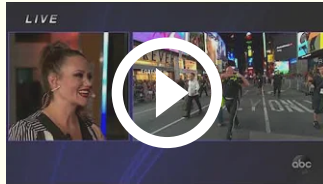

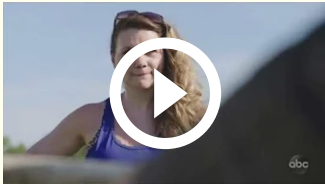

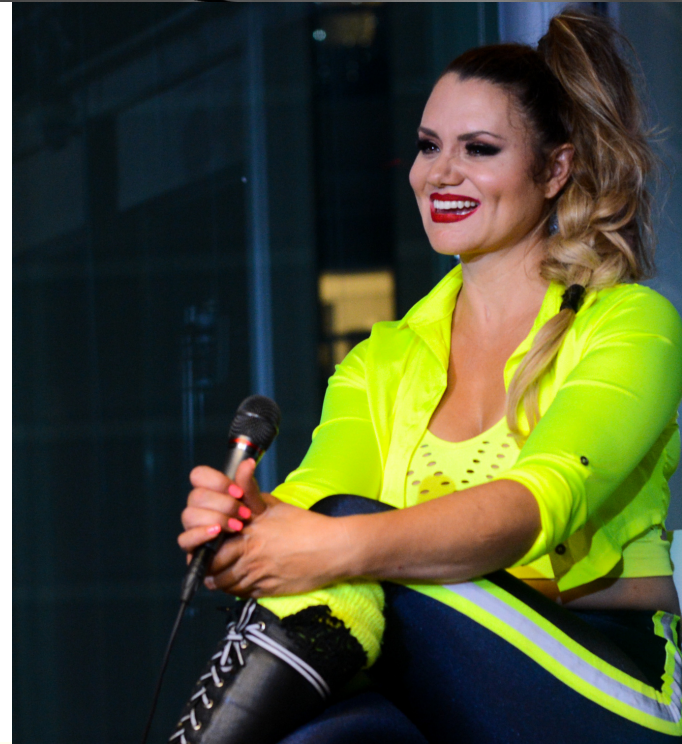

“So inspiring”
- David Copperfield
Legendary Magician

Lijana Wallenda is a seventh generation circus performer and high wire walker from the world famous Wallenda Family, having performed amazing feats all over the world.

While rehearsing for a world record breaking pyramid on the high wire, Lijana nearly lost her life falling 35 feet when the pyramid collapsed. With the overwhelming injuries she sustained, including breaking every bone in her face, many people would understandably never return to the wire or perform at all, but Lijana showed an incredible amount of perseverance, dedication, and courage working to heal and regain both her strength and confidence. Facing her fears and overcoming her trauma, in 2019, Lijana made her epic comeback, televised live on a prime time ABC special, returning to the wire to perform an incredible skywalk, higher and longer than she had ever performed before. Walking 1300 ft across and 25 stories above Times Square between the two towers, she proved to herself and the world that her devastating fall would not be her defining moment. Lijana is now sharing her inspiring message of perseverance and triumph. She is on a mission to show people it is possible to rebound from trauma, face your fears, and rebuild a meaningful life, career, and destiny.

“If you want your program participants to return to their work and home with a renewed commitment to do and be their best, hire Lijana.”
- Sam Horn
CEO of the Intrigue Agency

“She’s coming back and playing in the Super Bowl.”
- Michael Strahan
NFL Hall of Fame Player, Journalist and Television Personality

“An inspiration to us all.”
- Wayne Newton
Mr. Las Vegas